EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT AT MASSEY UNIVERSITY

World class teaching by world class faculty

www.studyemergencymanagement.com

When the devastating Canterbury earthquake struck on February 22, 2011 it was Massey University emergency management alumni, students and faculty that deployed to New Zealand's worst disaster in close to 80 years.

From key roles in the emergency operations centre, to front line search and rescue, our Massey whanau (family) responded and their application of our emergency management teaching and research programmes made a difference.

Since its inception in the early 1990s, Massey University's emergency management programme has produced over 100 graduates making us most popular university level emergency management education provider in New Zealand.

As the only University in Australasia to offer a doctorate in emergency management (Doctor of Philosophy in Emergency Management), you are studying with a world leading institution that underpins its teaching with rich and contemporary research.

Over the past few years we have made some significant changes to our qualifications to better equip graduates for the rapidly evolving profession of emergency management, including the enhancement of digital learning technologies. We see ourselves as an important part of developing community disaster resilience through providing a challenging and quality graduate teaching and research programme to both New Zealand and students worldwide.

Professor David Johnston

Director, Joint Centre for Disaster Research
School of Psychology, College of Humanities and Social Sciences.

Massey University is New Zealand's longest serving accredited education provider in emergency management, with more than 20 years' experience.

GRADUATE CERTIFICATE IN EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT

GradCertEmergMgt

www.studyemergencymanagement.com

Level 7
Credits 60
Entry University degree or Approved qualification and relevant industry experience.

Approved qualifications include many public safety qualifications at level 5 or above, including: National Diploma in Fire & Rescue, National Certificate in Civil Defence Management, Certificate in Applied Emergency Management, Certificate in Search & Rescue, IFE Diploma and IAEM Associate Emergency Manager or Certified Emergency Manager credential. New Zealand Defence Force, Police, Fire Service rank and experience entry option also available.

For most students embarking on emergency management studies, the Graduate Certificate in Emergency Management will be their first step. The Graduate Certificate provides an introduction to emergency management concepts and incident command systems.

A wide range of electives can be chosen to target students' professional development requirements and personal interests, with an option also to study other papers offered by the university such as aviation or military studies if these paper choices are relevant to your emergency management programme.

Students can progress to the Graduate or Postgraduate Diploma in Emergency Management depending on their circumstances and subject to meeting academic performance standards.

Compulsory (30 credits)

130.201 Introduction to Civil Defence in New Zealand
130.301 Incident Command Systems

Electives (30 credits)

114.355 Management Development
131.321 Strategies for Sustainable Development

GRADUATE DIPLOMA IN EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT

GradDipEmergMgt

www.studyemergencymanagement.com

Level 7
Credits 120
Entry University degree or Approved qualification and relevant industry experience.

Approved qualifications include many public safety qualifications at level 5 or above, including: National Diploma in Fire & Rescue, National Certificate in Civil Defence Management, Certificate in Applied Emergency Management, Certificate in Search & Rescue, IFE Diploma and IAEM Associate Emergency Manager or Certified Emergency Manager credential. New Zealand Defence Force, Police, Fire Service rank and experience entry option also available.

This qualification has been the flagship of Massey University's emergency management programme for over a decade. Recently it has been revised to focus solely on undergraduate papers, making it an ideal extension programme for recent graduates with an interest in emergency management, those already holding the Graduate Certificate in Emergency Management who do not wish to proceed to the postgraduate level, or those who require further papers to improve their academic record for entry into the postgraduate programme. The GradDipEmergMgt has an even wider choice of electives than the GradCertEmergMgt, making it a very flexible qualification for students.

MASTER OF EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT

MEmergMgt

www.studyemergencymanagement.com

Level 9

Credits 120

Entry Postgraduate Diploma in Emergency Management with relevant industry experience or 120 credits at 700 level from the Graduate Diploma in Emergency Management (2012 and prior version only) for transitional purposes.

There is an increasing expectation that senior emergency managers demonstrate their academic competence through attaining a masters level qualification in emergency management or a related field. The new MEmergMgt offers two options: A Research Option (requiring the completion of a 120 credit thesis in emergency management) or an Applied Option that requires a combination of advanced coursework in leadership, a 30 credit research report and additional coursework to meet the requirements. Students considering a career in emergency management research should consider the research option. However those considering a senior leadership or practitioner role should choose the applied option.

Research Option

130.899 Thesis in Emergency Management (or equivalent)

Applied Option Compulsory (90 credits)

130.801 Advanced Leadership in Emergency Management
130.799 Research Report in Emergency Management

DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY (EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT)

PhD (EmergMgt)

www.studyemergencymanagement.com

The degree of Doctor of Philosophy (PhD) is the highest supervised degree offered by Massey University. It is awarded for a thesis which has an integrated and coherent report that demonstrates a candidate's ability to carry out independent research and analysis at an advanced level in a particular field of study.

Massey University is the only university in Australasia to offer a PhD endorsed in emergency management and as the programme is hosted within the Joint Centre for Disaster Research, students can be assured their research careers are starting with the leading research centre for emergency management in New Zealand.

Level 10

Massey University also offers a range of short emergency management professional development workshops and courses. These attendance based learning events cover a diverse range of topics, without the demands of pre or post event activities or assessments. Delivered using a mixture of leading academics and seasoned practitioners, these events are ideal for new and experienced emergency managers. A certificate of attendance is issued which will assist with professional certification requirements such as the Certified Emergency Manager (CEM®). Customised workshops can also be developed for clients upon request and can be delivered world wide.
