

1000 DRR Indicators

A group of young children, likely students, are looking out from a window with a red frame. They are wearing blue school uniforms. The window has several horizontal bars with colorful beads (red, yellow, blue, and grey) strung across them. The children are smiling and waving their hands. The text is overlaid on the image in a white, sans-serif font.

How do you measure the SUCCESS of DRR efforts?

How do you QUANTIFY the success of a disaster that DID NOT happen?

How do you ensure development is SUSTAINABLE and SAFE?

How do you
measure
RESILIENCE?

How do you
measure
INHERENT
resilience?

What is a community's capacity to COPE?

What is a community's capacity to ADAPT?

DRR1000 is an initiative to gather indicators of DRR from the frontlines, towards creating a better understanding of how, and how much, risk reduction helps.

SEEDS

By 1000 DRR Indicators

SEEDS is a non-profit organisation that seeks to protect the lives and livelihoods of people exposed to natural disasters and living in disaster prone areas. SEEDS primarily engages in shelter reconstruction and adopts locally based approaches to reduce the impact of future disasters on communities at risk.

Founded in 1994, SEEDS comprises of young professionals drawn from various development related fields. It is governed and advised by a board of eminent academicians and practitioners from international organisations.

SEEDS with its small team of committed individuals has reached out to families affected by earthquakes, floods and cyclones; restored schools and homes, and has unshakably put its faith in education to build long term resilience. SEEDS continues to advocate for and involve with communities across Asia to ensure a safer and sustainable world.
