

National Conference on Societal Resilience

20th-21st March 2023, The University of Manchester, UK

The National Consortium for Societal Resilience [UK+] will bring together partners from policy and practice from across UK to share insights, learn together, hear about inspiring work, and identify opportunities on how to enhance societal resilience.

This in-person conference will provide a networking forum to inspire and galvanise further collaboration and action.

Conference programme

Join us to hear from leading policymakers, practitioners, and resilience experts from multiple sectors including our keynote speakers:

- Mary Jones, Resilience Director, UK Cabinet Office
- Colin Payne, Head of Strategy, Resilience and Recovery Directorate (RED), DLUHC

The conference will focus on the contributions of:

Government - including local resilience partnerships across the UK (LRFs, RRP, EPGs)

Voluntary and Community - including local groups, faith-based organisations, national charities

Business - including utilities, corporate programmes, and resilience advisors working in communities

Who should attend?

The conference is aimed at all those who have an interest in strategising societal resilience. This will include strategic staff from resilience partnerships/ LRFs and voluntary/public/private sectors as well as community resilience leads from within the sector.
